

LOCAL NEWS.

The Board of Supervisors meets at Accomac C. H., Wednesday, September 12th.

Mrs. Alice Ward, wife of Louis Ward, died at her home in Upshur's Neck, last Thursday.

Mr. L. Floyd Nock and wife left Thursday by steamer on a short tour to Baltimore, Washington and other points.

Mr. G. Walter Mapp, of Keller, left last week to accept a professorship in Hozsett Military Academy, Danville, Kentucky.

Mrs. W. C. Coleman and daughter Benah, of Accomac C. H., are in Norfolk, on a visit to the family of Mr. Wm. J. Coleburn.

Rev. Byron Clark will preach at the Presbyterian Chapel at Dougherty, next Sunday at 4 p. m., and at Onancock at 7:45 p. m.

Mr. Henry Battelle and Miss Susan Rogers, both of this county, were married in Baltimore, last Monday, Rev. Dr. F. M. Ellis, officiating.

Mr. John W. Carroll has resigned as mayor of Cape Charles, and Capt. George G. Savage has been elected as his successor for the unexpired term.

Miss Etta Wise will take a limited number of pupils for instruction in vocal music at her home at Accomac C. H. She teaches the Marchesi method.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Harborton, will be dedicated on Sunday, September 23rd. A dinner will be served free to everybody in attendance.

R. W. Bagwell, for the last year an attaché of this office, matriculated this week as student at Newton Theological Institute, Newton Centre, Massachusetts.

A. H. G. Mears has just loaded the third boat with sweet potatoes at Wachapreague wharf for New York city, and will continue to load more throughout the season.

Rev. Thomas Dixon will lecture in the Onancock Baptist Church, Monday night, September 10th, on the subject, "The Almighty Dollar." A fair will be held by the ladies of that church in the afternoon and evening of same day.

Fred Savage will be at Onancock, to-day, with a large drove of horses and mules, suitable for farm and road purposes—and later will make a tour of the county with them. He will be assisted in handling them by his father, Duffield Savage.

Henry Riley, colored, a thrifty farmer, was thrown from his cart near his home on Chesconnessix by a runaway horse last Monday, and instantly killed. No one was with him at the time of the accident, but when found a few minutes after, his head was crushed and life extinct.

Mr. Charles A. Duncan, who has been living in Southern Illinois for 25 years, is visiting his brother, John W. Duncan, Onancock, at this time. This is his first visit to the county since he left 25 years ago, and an old fashioned Virginia welcome is being extended to him by his numerous friends.

There will be a festival at Cradockville church on Wednesday afternoon and night, September 19th, beginning at 1 o'clock p. m. Ice cream, confectioneries and fruits, brand beer, will be among the attractions. Speaking at night by prominent speakers. Admission free. Supper 25 cents. Proceeds to repair church.

The Young Ladies' Aid Society of Oak Grove church, will hold a festival at the Fair grounds, Saturday afternoon, September 8th, beginning at 1 o'clock. During the afternoon a game of base ball will be played. Supper will be served, after which the audience will be pleasantly entertained free of charge. The public is cordially invited.

Mr. William Ellinger, who owns Fox Island, in Pocomoke sound, and is largely interested in oyster-culture, has invented a device which he thinks will effectually prevent dredging in forbidden waters. This consists of strong stakes driven fast in the bottom, with strong galvanized wire fastened around the stakes and forming a net work over the oyster-reeks.

The Baptist Church at Harborton will be dedicated October 7th. President Henry P. Weston, D. D., L. L. D., of The Crozer Theological Seminary, will preach the dedicatory sermon. All Baptist pastors on the Shore will be present. Each church is expected to send its pastor and three delegates and at 3 p. m., recognition services will be held presided over by Rev. Dr. A. Judson Reamy.

Thirteen actions of ejectment have been instituted in the circuit court of this county by E. A. Outen et al., through Burroughs & Bro., and L. B. Allen, attorneys of Norfolk city, against certain residents of Onancock to recover possession of what is known as the Outen lot, which belonged to Henry P. Parker at the time of his death and afterwards divided into lots and sold by U. B. Quinby, special commissioner, for distribution among said Parker's heirs a law. The cases will be on the docket to be heard at the October term of the circuit court.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

Chincoteague.

Solomon Hackerman, merchant, is moving his stock of goods from this place to Berlin, Md., and will open store there.

Mrs. John R. Walter, of Keller, Rev. Mr. Jester and family, of Wilmington, Del., and J. T. Kenney, of Philadelphia, are visiting friends here.

Rev. J. T. Edmondson has accepted a position under Rev. H. M. Wharton, Baltimore, and will move his family to that city about 15th of September.

S. E. Matthews has bought steamer Lillie Agnes, of Jackson & Co., Florida, mail contractors, and will run the mail under contract with them from Franklin City to this place for the next 34 months.

Three masted schooner S. C. Smith went ashore on Assateague Beach, two miles above Assateague station, 11 o'clock at night of last inst., and remained there until 8:30 a. m., 3rd inst., when she was pulled off by tug boats. She was loaded with lumber and was bound from North Carolina to Boston, Mass.

Arrivals at Atlantic Hotel this week: M. Coulter, C. E. Evans, E. B. Coaster, Baltimore; E. C. Roach, H. Boas, J. W. Jones, P. E. Hartman, M. H. Middleton, Harrisburg, Pa.; J. Travers, C. E. West, J. H. Price, wife and daughter, Wilmington, Del.; C. H. Richardson, Snow Hill; E. B. Davidson, W. D. Hicks, Milford, Del.; Misses Annie Fletcher, J. E. Selby, C. W. S. Evans, J. Twyford, W. S. D. Fletcher, Accomac.

Mr. A. T. Bowden was shot in his bed through a window, near which he was sleeping last Saturday night, and died in a few hours thereafter. At the coroner's inquest held over the dead body, Irving Sturgis testified, that he with twelve other young men had been upon the Island in search of members of what is known here as the "Sanctified Band" who have made themselves offensive to the citizens of the Island generally by their lewd habits, and that on their return while near the residence of Mr. Bowden, he shot in the air to frighten his companions and supposed he accidentally shot Bowden. The deceased was a highly respected citizen and his death has cast a gloom over the whole Island. He was a poor man and had a wife and six children dependent upon him for support.

Atlantic.

Miss Florence Wood is visiting the Misses Miles.

Fodder saving and potato digging keep our people busy.

The corn crop is far above an average—indeed it is very fine.

Mr. F. F. Taylor will leave next Monday for Western Maryland College.

Miss Sallie Floyd, of Northampton, has returned home after visiting friends in Atlantic and Horntown.

Misses Bertie Lee, Mamie E. Parsons and Mollie Taylor left Wednesday for Farmville State Female Normal School.

There will be a grand picnic and fish party at Wishart's Point, September 12. Boat sailing, refreshments and music will enliven the occasion.

The M. P. Church has just painted their building and will put in new pews in a few days. Then we will have two of the most comfortably seated churches in the county.

Parkley.

Miss Carrie Johnson left a few days ago for Kiowa, Kansas, to take charge of a school there.

The protracted meeting at Hunting Creek church has been going on this week, with several professions.

Rev. Mr. O'Connor, of Parkley, has been assisting in a protracted meeting on Chincoteague Island.

The game of base ball last Friday between Parkley and Dr. Mason's team, resulted in favor of Parkley.

Misses Gertie Veasey, of Pocomoke, Lilly and Bessie Van Dyke, of Baltimore, and Ella Dennis, of Machipungo, have been visiting Miss Ethel Lewis this week.

Capt. J. B. Baylor arrived at Hunting Creek a few days ago in his steam launch Petrel, to finish up some work in surveying, but has left for Chincoteague bay, and will proceed to survey the oyster grounds there.

The Oyster Navy.

A meeting of the Board of the Chesapeake and Its Tributaries was held last evening at the Executive Mansion. The session consumed several hours and a great deal of business was transacted.

Mr. L. R. Stokes, of Portsmouth, was elected mate of the Accomac, and the salaries of the officers and crew of the vessel were fixed as follows:

Captain, J. H. Costin, $100 per month; Engineer, John F. Talbott, $75 per month; Mate, L. R. Stokes, $75 per month; two firemen, $85 per month each; one cook, $35 per month, and four seamen, $25 per month each.

The Accomac will be ready for service in a few days. A metal sheathing will be placed upon her bottom. With this steamer the Virginia navy consists of four vessels (two steamers and two schooners) and will give the oyster marauders a warm reception.—Richmond Star.

The reputation of the Maltby House, Baltimore, for first-class accommodations and low rates is fully sustained under the present management. This fact with its central location should recommend it to all travellers.

A. T. Bowden Shot and Killed.

Mr. A. Thomas Bowden, as reported elsewhere in these columns, was shot and killed last Saturday night, at his home on Chincoteague, and eleven young men charged with being in the party that killed him, were brought to Accomac C. H., last Wednesday.

Upon application for bail, Judge Gillet, after hearing the testimony, agreed to bail them under bond in the penalty of $1,000 each.

Henry Savage, Daniel Beebe and Oliver H. Jester, three of the prisoners, gave the required bail and were released. The others, Irvin S. Sturgis, Fred Fresh, D. J. W. Lewis, Arthur C. Byrnes, Wm. B. Mumford, Solomon Daisey, Wm. B. Bloxum and John Daisey, in default of bail were committed to jail.

The young men were sent to jail by Justice Maflit, after an inquest held by him, assisted by Justice L. F. J. Wilson, the verdict of the jury being "that A. Thomas Bowden came to his death on the night of September 1st, 1894, by a bullet from a pistol fired in the hand of one Irvin S. Sturgis and the rest of the crowd, (given above), equally as guilty."

The circumstances under which the fatal shot was fired, as detailed before the jury substantially were as follows:

That Sturgis with the others, upon invitation of some of them, went up the Island in search of a man by the name of Workman, who is a member of what is known as the "Sanctified Band"—that failing to find Workman and "to get a move on him," as they declared was their intention, they started for home and while on their way a shell was thrown against the house of John Bowden and soon after the shot was fired with the fatal result stated above. According to their own account, when they started to look for Workman none of them were armed, but on the way somebody gave Irvin Sturgis a pistol. He fired it in the air and as he did not know Bowden and could have no feeling against him, that the ball from the same passed through the window and killed Bowden, appears to have been accidental.

The young men when they went in search of Workman made the mistake in attempting to punish him for his immorality by taking the law in their own hands, but there is no doubt that so great is the indignation of people of the Island generally against him and others of the "Sanctified Band," that they reflected by their action, the sentiment of the best people of the Island, and the wonder is, that the lewd and lascivious habits of the Sanctified crowd, practiced by them under the guise of religion, has not led to bloodshed before.

The young men implicated in the affair are among the best on the Island, and no one more sincerely deplores the killing of Bowden, we presume, than they do.

Mr. Bowden, though he had once been a member of the "Sanctified Band" left them in August, when the improper motives of the leaders were disclosed to him, and it is stated, so great was his disgust for them, that he was known to be in sympathy with the crowd that went to drive Workman from the Island.

To Develop Oyster Beds.

The Isle of Wight Inlet and Oyster Planting Company of Worcester county, Md., has determined to go ahead with the salting of the Isle of Wight, Assawamann and Sinepuxent bays and their tributaries for oyster planting and farming.

The company has an authorized capital of $400,000, and a Baltimorean has undertaken to promote the enterprise and raise funds for the work. He expects to go to Connecticut in a short time to interest the oyster dealers of that section in the project.

The franchise of the company authorizes it to construct and maintain a canal across the narrow strip of land lying between the inland bays of the Maryland coast and the Atlantic ocean, thus impregnating the bays with salt water and making them available for oyster planting. As a reward for the construction and maintenance of the canal, the company is given control of one half of the oyster beds in the inland bays.

Major Hutton, engineer of the Baltimore harbor board, says the project is feasible, and the company has determined to begin constructing the canal at a point opposite the St. Martin's river, above Ocean City.

It is said that by producing a current of salt water from the ocean through the bays an area of 75 square miles of oyster ground will be made available—48,000 acres—capable of accommodating an annual oyster crop of 40,000,000 bushels, worth at the landings about $20,000,000. Chincoteague bay alone would give 40 miles of oyster ground. The beds made available for oyster planting would practically extend between the Virginia and Delaware State lines.—Crisfield Times.

Turlington's Grove Camp-Meeting.

The camp-meeting held at Turlington's grove during last month, represented the joint interests of Wachapreague and Pungoteague circuits. By the concurrent act of the two pastors and their committees, our Presiding Elder, Rev. W. P. Wright, was placed in charge of the meeting. Accepting this high trust, he discharged its obligations with great faithfulness and guided the meeting to great success.

This meeting will be remembered for its rainy Sunday. From early morning until nearly sunset, the rain fell; poured down, deluged the low places, but as fast as it fell it ran off the elevated camp-ground. Few of the tents leaked, none of them seriously. Under the tabernacle it was dry and dusty. The tentholders gathered to the services, but the wall of rain kept outsiders outside until nightfall. This camp-meeting will also be remembered for its unparalleled good order. And this came about with no planning for it and but little effort made to secure it. The few "rules" were unknown to the public—and also to most of the managers. The gentlemen and the ladylike deportment had the charm and merit of spontaneity, of a free-will offering, of a voluntary bearing in harmony with the true religious meaning of the occasion. Even during the intermissions no loud talking, no boisterous laughter could be heard within the square of tents. At the hour of preaching, the quiet, respectful attention made preaching a pleasure, and enabled the preacher to be heard to the utmost limit of the throng. And this was true, even when the tabernacle was crowded and its overflow massed around it. When the hour for retiring had come, the restful silence that invited to repose was like that of the isolated country home, where night's unbroken stillness is at once the harbingers and surety of blessed sleep. To say that the good order was perfect is to speak within its deservings. Perhaps it is explained largely by another fact that will long be remembered, namely: Its mighty spiritual influence of rare and increasing power. I have participated in five of the many camp meetings held at this place, but never before—neither here nor elsewhere, have I witnessed such a peculiar display of divine power. A county fair is not the best school of preparation for a religious meeting. But in this instance, the last day of a fair, coincided with the first day of the camp-meeting. Naturally, it required several days to counteract the worldly influence of the one, and to bring the people under the spiritual influence of the other. But this being accomplished, there was a widening, a strengthening of the spiritual grasp; until, to come to the meeting was to come to its divine seizure: to be brought into the sweep of its divine energy. Those best prepared to form an opinion, feel assured that the number of conversions would have reached into the hundreds if the meeting had been continued. There were twenty-seven conversions on the last night, and several at the last morning meeting; making in all, sixty who professed saving faith in Christ.

Many will long remember that last night, with its quiet, its marvellous power. And "there abideth" the memory of the final meeting, on that tranquil morning. Who can forget that hour of earth's recession and Heaven's approach; of the lingering spiritual influence—hallowed, tender, sweet, of the joy—"full," yet modified by solitude for some unavowed ones there; of its closing moments when hands were clasped in good-byes that held the pledge and hope of Heaven's reunion, of meeting "in the city of the new Jerusalem?"

I cannot close without mentioning another characteristic, and that is—the good preaching on this occasion. I have attended a great many camp-meetings, and I have heard some great sermons, but I have never before heard so many good sermons—one after another, as I heard at this meeting. Leaving unjudged my own humble effort, there was not a dry, dull, tedious sermon preached. They were all "in demonstration of the Spirit, and of power." No wonder that God blessed the word. The visiting brethren from outside the district were Revs. W. J. Twilley, of Mataoca, J. T. Bosman, of Portsmouth, and L. T. Williams, of Lynchburg. Of the brethren within this district, there were with us: Revs. H. C. Cheatham, of Hampton, T. N. Potts, of Salisbury, J. G. Lennon, of Belle Haven, and E. F. Garner, of Onley. Rev. J. R. Griffith, that genial genius of the Pungoteague circuit, was my colleague, and therefore not a visitor on this occasion, but being "a new man" on this Shore "we preached him" frequently to the advancement of the spiritual interests and influence.

Under the leadership of the Rev. J. G. Lennon, good singing was secured from the beginning and maintained to the close.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of Drummondtown Lodge No. 725, Independent Order of Good Templars, held September 3rd, 1894, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, In the wisdom of God sister Fannie J. Rowles has been removed from our midst by death, and having been a member of this Lodge from its organization to the time of her death, and always interested in its success, and regularly in our midst to encourage and help until prevented by failing health, therefore, resolved,

1. That we feel keenly the loss of one so fully identified with the work of the Good Templars, and while our hearts are sad, we bow with resignation to this dispensation of our Heavenly Father, and assure the sorrowing husband and relatives our deepest sympathy.

2. That these resolutions be spread upon our Minutes and published in the ENTERPRISE.

W. F. HAYES, MAY O. COLBURN, Com. R. W. BAGWELL, Sec.

Whereas, It has pleased our all-wise Father to take from us Mrs. Fannie Rowles a useful member of our Society and one whose memory is cherished by us for her zeal and sympathy in our work, her upright character and her many good qualities, resolved,

That our Society has lost a valued and faithful member and one whom we loved and honored.

That we do hereby tender our sympathy to her bereaved husband and family.

That these resolutions be copied in our minutes, published in the ENTERPRISE and a copy sent to her family.

By order of the Ladies Working Society of the Drummondtown Baptist Church.
